

illumina Privacy Transparency Report 2021

Overview

Transparency and accountability are two of Illumina's fundamental Privacy Principles. Consistent with these principles, our annual Transparency Report discloses requests we receive from law enforcement agencies for the disclosure of genomic information.

Illumina is a U.S. company with international offices and a global customer base. If we receive a request for the disclosure of genomic information from an international law enforcement agency, we will follow the same standards we have set for U.S. law enforcement agencies. This includes abiding by our Privacy Principles, Privacy Policy, and requiring requests to be legally valid and specific.

For more information about how Illumina uses and shares personal information, including genomic information, see our Privacy Policy.

Requests for Genomic Information

During the fiscal year ending January 3, 2022, Illumina received zero requests from law enforcement agencies for the disclosure of genomic information.

Request Source	Number of Requests	Number of users affected	Number of requests complied with	Percent of requests complied with
United States	None	None	None	N/A
International	None	None	None	N/A
Total	None	None	None	N/A

National Security Requests

As of December 2020, Illumina has not received a National Security Letter (NSL), an order made under the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act (FISA), or a classified request pursuant to the national security laws of the United States or any other country.

Our previous Privacy Transparency Report for 2020 can be found here.